

OBITUARY

DR. S. C. GHOSE, M.D., M.R.S.L. (LOND.)

It is with a very heavy heart that we announce the death of our Editor-in-Chief Dr. Sarat Chandra Ghose. This melancholy event took place on the morning of the 8th August, '53. He long passed the biblical age of three scores of years and ten. He was eighty-four and was apparently keeping a good health before he was suddenly down with an apoplectic stroke at about 11 a.m. on the 5th August. He passed the remaining days in deep coma and the end came peacefully on the said date.

As an author, biographer, journalist, and research-worker in the field of Homœopathic medicine his contributions are many and varied. No less was he a man of multifarious public activities. He started his homœopathic practice at Midnapore, Bengal in 1898. He left Midnapur and settled at Bhowanipore, Calcutta in 1902. Since then he was practising in this town with great success and reputation, but for a brief exodus to his native place at Jessore during the last war.

He was a corresponding member of the American Institute of Homœopathy, British Homœopathic Society, Hahnemann Institute of Brazil and California State Homœopathic Medical Society; a member of the American Association of Clinical Research, etc.; Honorary Member International Hahnemannian Association, U.S.A.; Associate Editor, Pacific Coast Journal of Homœopathy and Foreign Contributing Editor of the Mid-west News Journal, U.S.A.; author of several Homœopathic books; and a biographer of Dr. Mahendra Lall Sircar, M.D., D.L., C.I.E.,; and a corresponding member of the Foundation for Homœopathic Research Inc. of New York, U.S.A.

He was Editor-in-Chief of this Journal since 1932 and Editor of the Bengali monthly homœopathic journal the 'Hahnemann' since 1932.

Dr. Sarat Chandra Ghose, M.D., M.R.S.L. (LONDON)

Born 1870

Died 1953

We are all proud of the General Council and State Faculty of Homœopathic Medicine, Bengal. But how many of us remember with gratitude the fact that it was the "Roman hand" of Dr. Ghose which worked behind its inception and establishment by the Govt. of Bengal?

May his soul rest in peace and his memory live long amongst us a source of perennial inspiration for those who like to work and to work selflessly, ungrudgingly and constructively for the cause of Homœopathy!

NOCTURNAL EPILEPSY

DR. H. I. RAISINGHANI, L.C.P. & S. (BOM.), Bombay.

I am reproducing the case history of my epileptic patient, upon whom I have tried good many homœopathic medicines, but I have so far failed in my attempt to cure him. My sole object of discussing this case with the readers of your esteemed Journal through the "Gleanings" columns is to invite suggestions and to search for a medicine, if it is known to the homœopathic patrons, in the hope and endeavour of curing the patient on one hand and to apprise my allopathic colleagues with a spectacular cure of such disease by homœopathic treatment, on the other.

CASE HISTORY

Patient, Kh. Ch. A., male, age 31 years (Born on 22nd June 1922) medium height and medium built, married at the age of 25 (one year after the attacks started). Suffered from the 1st paroxysm of convulsive fits in the year 1946 (age 24) at night time, while he was out, while managing his agricultural lands.

He states: these were the summer days and the nights were moon-lit. He was sleeping on the cot out-doors. By about midnight he got up to make water. Then again he went to sleep. Two three hours thereafter, his relatives
